As our CEO, Abhijit Dubey, highlighted, physical AI is moving from concept to reality.

Organizations are increasingly exploring how AI can interact with the physical world, powering smarter operations, connected environments and real-time decision-making.

We're proud to be recognized as a Market Shaper in Gartner's inaugural Emerging Market Quadrant for Physical AI Services, reflecting our commitment to helping clients bring physical AI into production at scale.

The conversation around AI is shifting from what it can generate to what it can do in the real world.

I'm proud to see NTT DATA, Inc. recognized as a Market Shaper in Gartner's inaugural Emerging Market Quadrant for Physical AI, but also our ability to do what's possible with

We're already seeing the impact of AI where we're exploring the use of private 5G deployment enabled operations at scale to bring physical AI into play

Is your network helping your business move faster or holding it back?

Uptime alone is no longer enough. As AI adoption accelerates and digital demands grow, networks must do more

Rob Mello, Global Head of Network Solutions and Connectivity at NTT DATA, explores why the future of managed network services is about business performance, not just #Network performance.
