I've paid for premium for years and still get an ad for it every time I open the app -- why?! Also, "recently viewed" is consistently missing lots of tabs that I've viewed. The app has become glitchy recently, sometimes search turns up nothing when you can find things on the website, and sometimes tabs/chords just load to a black screen and you have to restart the app. I wish there were more options in this space, their library is the only reason I stick with it.

You can't do anything unless you pay their monthly fee. Also, I couldn't even find the app to uninstall it, I had to find it on Play store. It wasn't showing up in my apps section on my phone. Also, on top of that, it was listening in on my text messages with friends, with pop ups and suggested songs based on what I was typing in to my text messaging. Very invasive all around, and unusable without a fee. Very problematic app.

Hello, garrett duell! We provide over two million text tabs and chords for free, without a trial or subscription. If you saw an upgrade offer on every tab, you must be trying to access pro or official tabs, they are a part of premium membership. Please look for TAB and CRD types of tabs, they are free.

Good app for learning. The tabs are accurate, the MIDI covers make learning smooth, and the fact that you can learn almost every instrument in a song is great. However, when opening newly published official tabs, I'm unable to access them for weeks on end sometimes. Every time I try, it says that the tab is unavailable. I force stop the app, clear the cache, delete and reinstall it, but the same error message keeps popping up. It makes it irritating when I have to wait a week or more to learn.
