After adding two tag devices a couple months ago, it won't add another. I get an error saying "something went wrong" when trying to connect. This isn't helpful. I made sure discover nearby devices and all other required settings on my android phone are enabled. The device was in pairing mode. I tried more than one

I like the purpose and idea. The execution was an F+. First of all, when I want to add a device or see if I have any devices, it just shows the black and gray dots when it's loading the devices FOREVER. No matter how long I wait, it stays like that. Second of all, Guest Mode always responds with an error. So if you fix it, maybe I'll try it.

It works great if whatever you're looking for is no more than 30ft from you. Otherwise it's worthless. Didn't join the hub network. Not interested in the idea of everyone else tracking my sh_t. In conclusion it works great for misplaced keys, etc.. If they are close enough to hear the sound. No maps after initial setup. I guess I'm being punished for not joining their network. Unless you want to broadcast your devices to everyone. This is pretty much useless.

What's new

We've resolved an issue where Precision Finding wasn't working correctly on certain Android devices.

In addition to finding lost devices and items, you can now stay connected to the people who matter to you. You can share your live location to coordinate a meetup with a friend or check that a family member got home safe—all in one app.
