At Merlin, we've long believed in the power of those first opportunities to build confidence, develop skills and start a career. That's why we're proud to support the Government's Youth Guarantee by committing to create 300 roles for young people over the next three years.

As we deliver on that commitment, we'll work closely with our partners and suppliers to open up even more pathways into employment across our attractions, helping more young people take their first step into the world of work.

As I've said before, backing sectors like ours - which create jobs at scale and offer real opportunities for people to build rewarding careers - is key to making this ambition a reality. Today is a welcome step forward, and we're ready to play our part.
