

Help us welcome Horizontal Navigation to Bitbucket Cloud!

November 10, 2021 BITBUCKET

Bitbucket Cloud is getting a makeover!

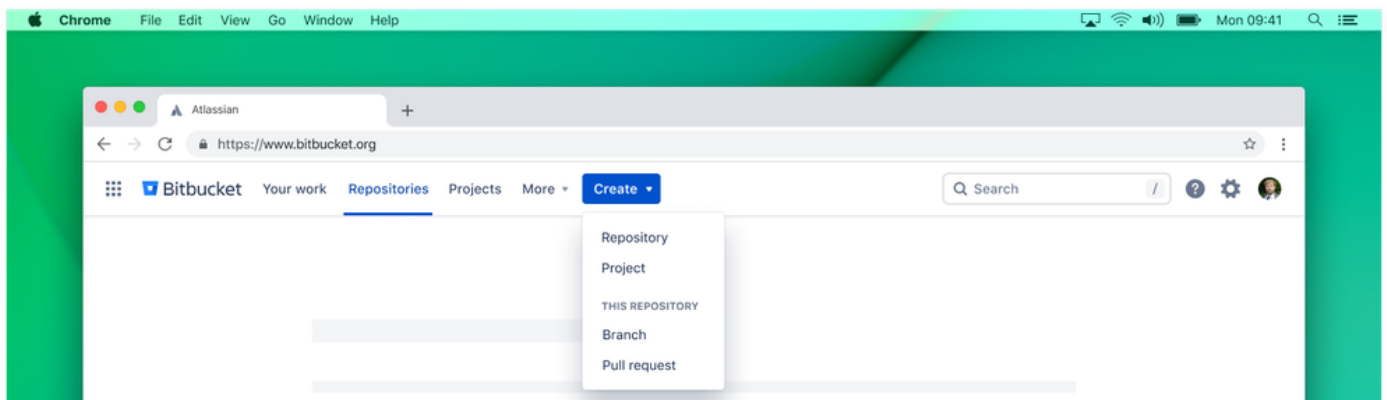

We are joining Jira and Confluence Cloud and moving our global navigation from a vertical bar along the left side to a horizontal bar displayed along the top of Bitbucket Cloud. This update is a huge improvement for our users in terms of findability and ease of use, and it also provides a consistent user experience for our customers using other Atlassian products.

Ready to try the new horizontal navigation bar? Keep an eye out for the feature in Labs, arriving November 17 2021. Soon after, the horizontal navigation bar will become the default view. You can revert to the vertical navigation bar by disabling horizontal navigation in Labs.

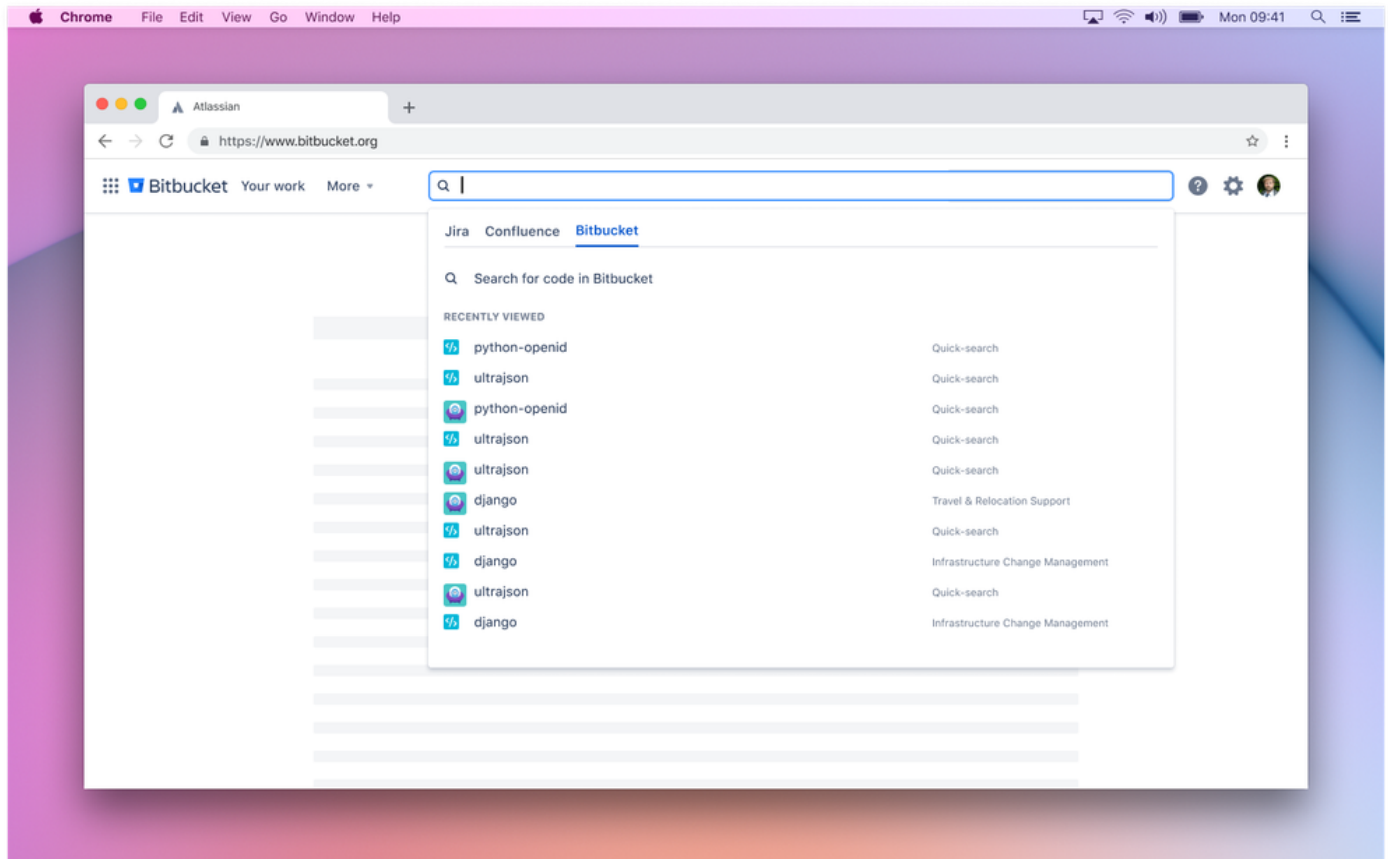

To improve access to your most frequently used items, we've moved Pull Requests, Issues, and Snippets to the dropdown menu under More.

We've updated the global 'Create' menu to show the most frequently used global and contextual 'create' actions.

That's not all!

We've also improved the search experience to allow Bitbucket users to search their instances of Confluence and Jira. This means that Atlassian users can seamlessly navigate between different products using the new search bar.
