

1:16

Fatwa kiosk opens in Cairo metro

The Egyptian government is trialling new fatwa kiosks on the Cairo metro.

28 August 2017

Share Save

EXPLORE MORE

Marathon runners compete on drifting sea ice at North Pole

'A 10-goal thriller': England fans react to 6-4 win over France

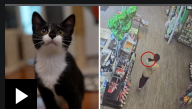

Firefighters 'doing everything they can' to extinguish wildfire

Helicopters dump water as huge Norway fire destroys homes

Giant sinkhole appears on Sunset Boulevard from burst water pipe

Meet Magnolia, the stolen kitten used in an attempted bank robbery

Timelapse shows World Cup final stadium nearly vanish in smoky haze

Drone images show major Cairngorms wildfire

Donning protective kit for a first glance at the Bayeux Tapestry

One-minute World News

BBC Newsline Signed Summary

World Cup gig for Nuneaton DJ

Watch: Swerving lorry driver arrested for drink-driving

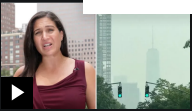

Two-council plan for Warwickshire gets go-ahead

Bodycam footage shows airlift of girl stranded by Texas floods

BBC subscribers get unlimited access for less than $1/week

See benefits

You can taste the smoke: New Yorkers on air quality as fires burn across Canada

How testosterone testing will work in Hegseth's military

White House: Staffer accused of placing bets on Trump speeches put on unpaid leave

Watch: What to know as Genoa bridge disaster trial ends

Video captures tree trimmers falling 45ft

'Positive' or 'unnecessary'? UK teens on social media ban

The prime minister announced that under-16s will be banned from social media by spring 2027.

Technology

How much screen time is too much for under fives?

The BBC's Vanessa Clarke talks through the government's new advice for children using screens.

Technology

Watch: BBC reporter tests AI anti-shoplifting tech

Some major retailers and independent stores have introduced AI body scans, CCTV or facial recognition equipment to identify crimes like shoplifting.

Technology

What does TikTok's deal mean for America's users?

The BBC's Asia business correspondent says it is still unclear what sort of experience TikTok users in the US get.

Technology

